INFORMATION ABOUT THE FUNDS MANAGED BY OBSIDO FUND MANAGEMENT COMPANY

INVESTMENT FUND AND SPECIAL INVESTMENT FUND

Obsido Fund Management Company (hereinafter Fund Management Company) manages investment and special investment funds. In this position, the Fund Management Company collects the assets of private individuals, communities, foundations and other investors and invests them in various securities and other investment subjects on the market in accordance with the Fund Rules. Together the assets form an investment fund or special investment fund. The funds' assets are invested in accordance with legislation, regulatory provisions and the Fund Rules while observing the principle of risk spreading. Investing in funds involves the risk of capital fluctuation. The level of risk depends on the relevant fund's investment subjects and policy.

Investment funds are regulated by the Act on Common Funds, which defines, for example, what investment funds can invest in and how assets must be spread across different investment subjects. The investment funds managed by the Fund Management Company have rules confirmed by the Finnish Financial Supervisory Authority, and they define the fund type and investment policy. In addition, these funds are investment funds referred to in the Directive on the coordination of laws, regulations and administrative provisions relating to undertakings for collective investment in transferable securities, i.e., UCITS funds.

Special investment funds are classed as so-called alternative investment funds, and this refers to funds that deviate from the principle of risk spreading specified in the Act on Common Funds. The fund's name must indicate whether it is an alternative investment fund. The fund-specific rules of special investment funds have been approved by the Board of the Fund Management Company, and they have been provided to the Finnish Financial Supervisory Authority for information.

Those who have invested in the fund own all the fund units. A fund unit provides an entitlement to the share of fund assets to be distributed in ratio to the number of fund units while considering the values of the fund unit series and types. The custodian maintains the fund's assets, which are kept separate from the assets of other funds, the Fund Management Company and the custodian. Therefore, the fund's assets cannot be used to cover the debts of the Fund Management Company or the custodian.

The Fund Management Company operates under its own name on behalf of other funds and exercises the rights associated with the assets in the funds. The fund operations are subject to a permit, and the Finnish Financial Supervisory Authority supervises it. Therefore, the fund is not within the scope of Investors' Compensation Fund Protection or a deposit guarantee.

FUND UNIT

Fund value

The value of the Fund is calculated by subtracting the Fund's debts from the Fund's assets. When calculating the value of the Fund, the assets of the Fund are appreciated at market value in accordance with the further specifications set out in the Fund Rules.

Fund unit value

The value of a fund unit is calculated separately for each fund unit series by dividing the Fund's value by the number of issued units while considering the fund unit series' varying management fees. The fund unit value for each banking day is published on the following banking day. The fund unit value is provided in euros or Swedish crowns.

Publication of fund unit value

The value of the Fund and the fund unit is calculated on each banking day. The fund unit value for each banking day is published on the following banking day. The value is published on the web pages of the Fund Management Company. www.obsido.fi.

SUSPENSION OF SUBSCRIPTIONS AND REDEMPTIONS

The Fund Management Company may temporarily suspend the subscriptions and/or redemptions of fund units if the Fund Management Company considers that the fund unit holders' equality, interest or other weighted reason requires it, such as if the value of the Fund cannot be reliably determined due to disturbances occurring in a market place that is significant for the Fund's investment operations or in communications, and the Fund Management Company has not been able to prepare for them, or if any other exceptional event disrupts the financial markets' operations.

The Fund's investment strategy and its changes are decided on by the Board of the Fund Management Company within limits set out in the Fund Rules. However, significant changes to the investment strategy may require changes to be made to the Fund Rules. The Fund Rules set out the provisions concerning changes to the Rules and how any changes to the Rules are communicated to fund unit holders.

SUSTAINABLE INVESTING

Sustainable investment refers to considering environmental, social and governance factors (ESG) in investment operations. Sustainable investment has been integrated as part of the investment decisions of all funds offered by Obsido. The ESG grades provided by issuers and other available data concerning sustainability are utilised in the integration of sustainability. Sustainability-related matters are also evaluated alongside financial issues when making funds' investment decisions. All investment and special investment funds offered by Obsido are in accordance with Article 6 of the Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector, and they consider sustainability risks and adverse impacts on sustainability factors in their investment operations. Investments included in fund products do not consider EU criteria concerning environmentally sustainable financial operations.

A sustainability risk means an environmental, social or governance event or condition that, if it occurs, could cause an adverse material impact on the value of the investment. Sustainability risks include, for example, climate change-related events, such as natural catastrophes, global warming and sea level rises. Sustainability risks also include sustainability-related changes in legislation and consumer demand. It is challenging to forecast the time, geographical location, probability and financial impacts caused by sustainability risks. Obsido's investment strategy for investment and special investment funds is based on perseverance and broad diversification. The investment operations are implemented by investing in different ETF investment products in different indexes. In the long-term, the weight of sustainably operating companies is assumed to increase and respectively, the weight of companies containing sustainability risks shall decrease. Wide spreading is aimed to be used to solve the challenges related to the predictability of sustainability risks and, in the case of the realisation of any individual risks, their impact on the entire fund's return. When reflecting on the whole equity market, the funds include an average number of sustainability risks, and the significance of individual risks on the funds' return is unlikely to be significant.

An adverse sustainability impact refers to an investment decision-caused adverse impact on sustainability factors, i.e., the environment, society, personnel, respect for human rights, and matters related to preventing corruption and bribery. Adverse sustainability impacts have been considered in all of Obsido's investment and special investment funds. Adverse sustainability impacts are reported in accordance with the Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council on sustainability-related disclosures in the financial services sector. The number of adverse sustainability impacts included in the funds is monitored on a fund-specific basis. Many companies included in the indexes have committed to significantly reducing their emissions and operating more sustainably. Therefore, it is likely that index investments' average number of adverse impacts will decrease in the long term. If necessary, adverse sustainability impacts caused by funds' investment decisions are actively aimed to be reduced by utilising responsible investment strategies. Information about considering adverse sustainability impacts is available in the funds' annual reports.

More information about sustainable investing and the operating principles concerning the consideration of sustainability risks and adverse sustainability impacts are available on Obsido's website at www.obsido.fi.

FUND UNIT HOLDERS' MEETING

A Fund Unit Holders' Meeting is organised at the initiative of the Fund Management Company's Board, or if an auditor, independent member of the Board or fund unit holders, who hold a total of at least one-twentieth of all issued fund units, demands this in writing for the purpose of processing an issue they have notified. TAXATION OF THE FUND AND UNIT HOLDERS

Taxation of the Fund

The Fund is a mutual investment fund registered in Finland. A mutual investment fund registered in Finland is not subject to income or property tax.

General

Capital gain or loss created in the redemption of a fund unit is taxable capital income.

Capital gain is subject to capital income tax in accordance with the valid tax rate. In addition, the subscription and redemption fees charged with the subscription and redemption of fund units are considered when calculating capital gain.

A capital loss is deductible in the capital income taxation for the year concerned and the following five tax years. The subscription and redemption fees charged with the subscription and redemption of fund units are considered when calculating capital loss.

In taxation, the exchange of a fund unit is treated as a redemption and a subscription. In this case, the capital gain or loss created in the redemption is subject to capital income tax, and what has been stated above on the taxation of a capital gain or loss shall also apply.

When fund units are transferred, the purchase price of the transferred fund unit is mainly determined in such a way that the units purchased first are deemed as transferred first.

Tax declaration

The Fund Management Company reports the fund units owned by natural persons liable to pay taxes in Finland to the Finnish Tax Administration. However, the taxpayer is responsible for declaring the capital gains and losses for the tax year to the Finnish Tax Administration.

RISK CLASSIFICATION OF FUNDS

The board of the fund company determines the risk class of each fund at least once a year. The classification is based on the definition of the fund's measure of market risk. Market risk is measured by the annualized volatility (VEV, VaR equivalent volatility), corresponding to the value-at-risk figure (VaR figure), which is calculated at a 97.5 percent confidence level for the recommended investment period, unless otherwise stated. The risk classes are presented numerically between 1 and 7, so that the lowest risk class is number 1 and the highest risk class is number 7.

The numerical value of the classification is generated based on the development of the value of the fund over five (5) years. If there is no realized historical data for the value of the fund for five years, shorter historical data available is used.
